POULTRY SHOW AT WESTERLY

Prize Winners Announced Thursday—Scouts to Attend
Providence Meet—Memorial Windows in Christ Church for Milner Brothers, of Moosup—Only 35 for Trip to Hear Sunday—Greenman-Brown Marriage.

The sixth annual show of the South County Poultry and Pet Stock association opened Thursday at the state armory in Westerly. Although the prize list is fully up to the standard, there are not as many birds in competition as at some of the former shows, but there are many of the highest grade in the several classes. There are less than 400 prize competitors, and every one of them have been carefully prepared by their owners for this show, and as a result it is a show of quality rather than quantity. Aside from the exhibitors and officials of the show, there was a light attendance at the opening, which is perhaps the main due to the unfavorable weather conditions. All arrangements for the show are on the modern and approved standard, and the courteous officials are doing their best to make this show a big success. The judges commenced their work early and expect to complete the task of selecting the prize winners in all classes by noon of Friday. These awards were announced:

Black Javahs—James H. Hoxie, Westerly, first hen, first cockerel, first pullet, first pen.

Black Langhans—Elizabeth Boss, Bradford, first hen, first cockerel, first and second pullet.

Single Comb White Leghorns—Clarence B. Chamberlain, South Windham, Conn., second cockerel, second pullet; Ed. L. Gavitt, Westerly, third cock, third hen, third cockerel, third pullet; George D. Heath, Stonington, first and second cock, first and second hen, first cockerel, first pullet, shape and color on first cock, shape and color on first hen.

Rose Comb White Leghorns—Reginald Oppie, Westerly, first cock, first hen, first second and third cockerel, first pullet, shape and color on first cock, shape and color on first hen.

Single Comb Brown Leghorns—Nathan B. Hartford, Bournedale, Mass., first cock, first hen, first cockerel, first pullet, shape and color on cock and hen.

White Wyandottes—Ernest A. White, Foxboro, Mass., first cock, first hen, first cockerel, first pullet; Frank Hill, Ashaway, second cock, second hen, first pen, shape and color first hen, shape and color first cockerel.

Sicilian Buttercups—Earl F. Willis, Westerly, first, second cock, first, second, third hen, first cockerel, first, second, third pullet, shape and color cock, shape and color hen.

Black Breasted Red Game—Mudge & Scholl, Westerly, first, second, third hen, shape and color third cockerel, first pullet; William C. Mudge, Jr., first, second cockerel, first, second pullet, shape and color first cockerel.

N. B. Hartford of Bournedale, Mass., was awarded the prize for the exhibit coming the greatest distance. W. E. Congdon of Oakdale is the prize winner for the largest individual entry, 107 bantams.

John J. Kennedy is superintendent of the show, and he is assisted by Edward L. Gavitt, William C. Mudge, the secretary, is naturally the busiest man at the show. The judges are C. W. Ballou of Westerly, A. J. Richards of Woonsocket and Prof. Daniel J. Lambert of the Rhode Island State College.

A large delegation from Westerly will attend the first state conference of the Rhode Island Boy Scouts to be held in Providence today (Friday) and Saturday of next week. There will be three sessions, Friday afternoon and evening and Saturday afternoon. The first will open with a talk on Vocation by Scouting by David Stone, Wheeler of the Rhode Island State college. J. J. Bodell will speak on Thrift, one of the qualities of a real scout. Dr. Norman B. Cole will lecture on Everyday Emergencies, a first aid talk. David Owl of the Cherokee tribe and Sounding Feather, an Apache, will tell about Indian Folk Lore.

The main meeting will be on Friday evening and will open with reception to the new troops and scoutmasters. Assembly will sound at 7.30 and taps 9.50. The Rhode Island Boy Scout band will furnish the music. Mayor Joseph H. Gainer will make the address of welcome and Governor R. Livingston will present the Boy Scout medals. William Longfellow, representing the Red Cross society, will talk on Self Defense, and Chief of Sound and Sounding Feather will tell the boys about Indian Life. A general reception will follow the address.

Saturday morning the Boy Scouts will visit the Providence Journal building, where the making of a newspaper will be explained, followed with a visit to the points of interest about the city. In the afternoon Prof. W. E. Congdon of Colby college will speak on Man the Masterful, and "Rabbit" Maraville, shortstop of the Braves, will speak on Baseball. The evening session will be the right hand man of Buffalo Bill, will describe Western Life, and Major O. Edward Buxton, Jr., will talk on Patriotism.

The handsome memorial windows to Edwin Milner and John H. Milner will be the main attraction of the city by Christmas morning. The memorials arrived in Westerly Thursday, and experts in the line from Boston are at work setting them in the nave of the church. One of the windows is given by Mrs. John H. Milner in memory of her husband, and the other is given by her son, John, Henry R. and Louis Milner, in memory of their uncle, Edwin Milner. There is a tablet in the church given by Edwin Milner to the memory of John Hobart Cross, and in 1905 Mr. Milner, when the tower of the church was completed, gave a chime of ten bells. The inscription on the big bell of the chimes reads:

"To the most high and true God and in filial and blessed memory of John and Charlotte Milner. 1869-1902."

State Deputy Councillor Harry A. Williams of Westerly will install the officers of Commodore Perry council, Junior Order American Mechanics, of South Kingstown, on the evening of Jan. 12. The deputy will be accompanied by about 50 members of Hope council of Westerly. Henry A. Rathbun has been appointed a committee to make arrangements for the reception of Deputy Williams and the Westerly brethren. The committee has arranged for a theatre party preceding the installation, which will be followed with a supper. Last October the South Kingstown Mechanics were entertained at Westerly by Hope council members.

Officers of Westerly grange, Patrons of Husbandry, were elected as follows in annual meeting: President, John H. man, master; Roger F. Dunham, overseer; Fanny S. Gavitt, lecturer; William H. Burdick, steward; J. Hobart Chapman, assistant steward; Mrs. Hattie L. C. Barbour, chaplain; George F. Barbour, treasurer; Mrs. Isabelle C. Chapman, secretary; Harvey Arzamas, gatekeeper; Mrs. William F. Saunders, Ceres; Mrs. Adella M. Burdick, Pomona; Mrs. Carrie B. L. Hall, Flora; Edith C. Champlin, lady assistant steward; William C. Gavitt, member executive committee for three years.

A local storeman had received a stock of trunks on the sidewalk when a quarryman passed on his way to work, when this conversation took place, the storeman speaking first: "Say, Mike, don't you want to buy a trunk?" "What for?" "To put your clothes in." "Do you want me to go naked?"
Rev. Frederick A. McDonald says the people of Westerly do not seem to enthuse over the proposed special train trip to Boston to hear Billy Sunday. Up to Thursday only 55 had given notice that they would make the trip. The number required is 300 and if that number is not reached by next Monday the project will probably be abandoned.
At a meeting of the committee representing the members-elect on the democratic side of the next general assembly, held in Providence, Daniel E. Geary was slated for minority house leader and William G. Troy minority leader in the senate. The action of this committee will be reported to the party caucus next Thursday evening in the Crown hotel, when the legislators will be guests of Patrick H. Quinn, national committeeman.
